

Part -1

Human being on this Earth was born directly from God. So every human being is a child of God. Not only human beings, in fact, every living being on this Earth was born as a blessing of God in a wonderful sequence of evolution explained in Vedic scriptures. Under broad classification, there are about 84,000 living species existing on this Earth according to those scriptures.

These scriptures are not like those written by sheer assumptions or hypothesis by some visionary or some intelligent logic maker who rationally concluded certain theories and established that it is so... NO. Though we are still following many such theories and being misled from the actual facts. Do you think a Man is born from a Monkey ? Do you think that single celled organism was the first in the evolution and others came from it ?

Because, Man knows that these theories are wrong, he is still conducting research to find out realities and unveil the secrets of Nature in a more authentic manner.

Even today great scientists don't know what is that soul and what are its characteristics and how is the living being so perfectly controlled according to the law of Nature and why everything is happening exactly in the same way as our scriptures have said. There is no authentic scripture anywhere in the world except Vedic scripts about what happens after death and whereabouts of the origin and path of destiny etc. In them, all such things were wonderfully discussed more elaborately with exact answers from the time tested experience of our great sages and Acharyas.

These Vedic scriptures are those revealed by great sages and saints who witnessed the realities of this creation, who really experienced the Truths during their hundreds and thousands of years of search, observing stringent austerities and rituals to explore the realities. Whatever they experienced and put to severe tests for several thousands of years, were collected and taught only to the highly devoted disciples who really aspired to know them.

Though wonderful technologies existed in those days, except those who are required to use them, others were kept away to avoid making the life of common people more complicated. Also, people lived in peace and prosperity developing rich culture and art, mainly focussing the purpose of their life and the means to actualise it.

People used to do their duties well and earn according to what they deserve for their work and worth. They used to pay their taxes well and also kings used to take advise of the highly learned saints and scholars to solve the problems, if any, during their rule. Even highly learned scholarly kings too used to seek advise of the saints and sages who always stick to their rituals strictly and observe severe austerities throughout their life. They used to perform Yagnas and Yagas for distributing the Divine Power to the people and rulers.

Take any scripture that has vedic authenticity, such as Puranas, Dharma Sastras etc. They will have the description of how Creation was done, how various living beings came into existence, what was there before and what is going to happen etc. They elaborate each and every minute detail of all the important facts of evolution process along with their names and other attributes.

To understand this science of soul, secrets of Nature and traits of God, the knowledge of Vedic Science, it needs several skills over language semantics, grammar, special usages etc., along with all the ancillary subjects that give full control over the contextual meaning and the flow of subject. Even great scholars get deceived by the complicated techniques and underlying special cases. Hence, only highly learned scholars can do it. Also one life may not suffice to learn them all.

Such highly learned scholars may not reveal these secrets to all those who sought them for, they test the ability of the seeker and prepare the seeker to benefit and deserve to handle it and then they may teach if, they are pleased by the commitment and devotion and the ability to utilise the skill in rendering services, not for any bit of selfish purpose, but for the noble cause or the purpose of the society.

History of human beings, evolution of species, secrets about the origin of this Universe is not what some people said so and so, but, what it actually is ! It is past and it already happened. Our rational views, some theories and judgements will never be able to change it anymore. One should only accept it.

" A rose is a rose is a rose ", we know it well. Even if majority of people say no, or so called great scientists say no, that doesn't stand. There is no place for any self judgement or prophecy that can stand valid in accepting the past history. For whatever be the reason, the original history has to be accepted as it is.

Our great sages, seers and saints were not only great scientists, but also great practitioners who played real time role in implementing the science they have realised.

Science need not be necessarily in Chinese, in English, in French or in German and also anything said with some logic, on the name of a scientist in any such language will never become a scientific fact. But, this attitude was developed in many people, specially among people of those countries that were once the British Colonies.

A scientific fact said in Sanskrit by a great sage is being questioned in hundred ways even by people of this country, whereas the same scientific fact when secretly translated into any of the above said languages, modified according to their fancies and theories and if a prominent scientist or a group from some International research laboratory of repute publishes it on their name or applies for a patent right, then everybody accepts it readily even though these people don't know what research is being conducted in such laboratories. Shouldn't this deviation from the Truth be checked ?

This is happening because of the business logics, share markets, more advanced missiles, weapons, space ships, foreign reserves, economic status etc., have become the measuring scale of development and civilisation, rather than taking the count of the improvement in human relationships and implementation of moral values, inculcating humane nature, development of art and culture, reduction in crime rate and obviating sufferings of common people etc..

More importance is being given for extra comfort, easy luxury and self centered satisfaction rather than for Spiritual elevation or simple and happy living of all the living beings in mutual harmony and love.

A man is ready to spend time money and also other resources on hand, heavily on self entertainment and physical enjoyment and immediate benefits of temporary life. Less attention is paid on the facts about life after death though every person knows that the life is only for few tens of years.

Fundamental duties every human has to do, as a species existing on this Earth, fundamental activities that enhance the longevity, health and social integrity with other living beings & Nature, highest values of mutual relationships, gratitude, Love, care and concern for others, to share the highest of the soulful enjoyment in service of Divine etc... were all now being confined only to words and sometimes to books and atmost to presentations.

Foreground interface is entirely a different scene than the background intentions and expectations. This is what we can see in many business policies and even Government policies !! Limit of 'business' is survival and comfort, but not to satisfy greed or ego desires.

Keeping all these things in view, our sages and saints have recorded the history exactly, of course, in Sanskrit language. They gave lucid deductions, the essential cream of truths and ordained certain practices on us in our daily life to cultivate them - without giving elaborated reasons and detailed arguments which may overburden the reader. They have foreseen that we will not have that much patience, time and persistence to go through the reasons and arguments. However they too are presented but, for higher learned community.

Today, because somebody was not able to rediscover Newton's theory should we discourage such a theory or that person? So also the history of our Universal origin and secrets of Nature, activities of soul, support of God, are all established millions of years ago as read from our history. May somebody recognise it or not, it doesn't matter. Let us not discourage those who reveal the original history of our Vedic Glory. We will accept anything that is authentic and doesn't negate the Vedic injunctions, because Vedas are those Divine cosmic sounds packed with Universal Truths, realised and presented to us by our great sages, the great wisdom as-it-is was passed down through the lineage of our Acharyas who stand witness for sanctity, sacrifice and Spiritual realisation. In our short life, let us too.. realise and respond..
